COMMUNITY CHARITY COSTUME

Batman & Robin, Cinderella and Donald Duck; an array of fictional characters will be on display at the inaugural Stranger Than Fiction costume party to be held on Saturday 22 November 2008 at the Batavia Hall, Geraldton Grammar School.

The event is the brainchild of Easyazz, whose philanthropic spirit will also see the party support the launch of the Mid West Community Foundation, a local charitable, community based initiative established in 2007 to facilitate community growth and development, and to connect people across the region. Tickets are $25.00 each and are available for purchase from Lets Party in the Homemaker Centre or Wild in the Stirlings Centre.

Easyazz bases its business on innovative ideas that bring new products and services to the Mid West region, including web design, wireless internet and home automation.

"We see a huge amount of potential in Geraldton and across the region, and are excited to be hosting the party and supporting the Mid West Community Foundation. The Foundation is the perfect vehicle to ensure that communities across the Mid West benefit in perpetuity," said Director Jason Bertelsen.

The Mid West Community Foundation has been established under the umbrella structure of Western Australian Community Foundation, which serves as trustee for a number of funds and trusts across the state. As Trustee, Western Australian Community Foundation is responsible for the management and coordination of all administration, legal and financial matters relating to the Mid West Community Foundation.

"Established under the umbrella of Western Australian Community Foundation, the Mid West Community Foundation continues a long history of generosity in our communities, but has the capacity to keep on giving," said Tammy Batten, local advisory committee chairperson.

"At the heart of the Foundation is the desire to sustain, grow and provide opportunity - from small groups passionate about a cause to whole of community projects that bring people together."

A local advisory committee of community members from across the Mid West region has been established, to act as the representative local body. The local advisory committee will work closely with Western Australian Community Foundation to seek and recommend local initiatives and projects for support. This ensures grass roots input and participation. No other community foundation in Australia shares this model.
